Secretary of Navy Tells Senate American
Admiral Praised British
Despite Wilson's Condemnation of Their

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—Great Britain was "helpless to the point of panic" in the submarine crisis, according to President Wilson in a cable criticizing the British admiralty, sent to Admiral Sims July 4, 1917, and read to the Senate naval affairs committee today by Secretary Daniels.

This cable "satirically" declared the British admiralty was failing to use its great naval superiority effectively and urged Sims to send a complete report of what the admiralty was doing together with his own recommendations "without regard to the judgments of anyone on that side of the water."

The cable in part follows:

"From the beginning of the war, I have been greatly surprised at the failure of the British admiralty to use Great Britain's great naval superiority in an effective way. In the presence of the present submarine emergency, they are helpless to the point of panic. Every plan we suggest, they reject for some reason of prudence. In my view, this is not a time for prudence but for boldness even at the cost of great losses."

"In some of your dispatches, you have quite properly advised us of the sort of aid and cooperation desired from us by the admiralty. The trouble is that their plans and methods do not seem to us efficacious. I would be very much obliged to you if you would report to me, confidentially, of course, exactly what the admiralty has been doing and what they have accomplished, added to the necessary support, your own comments and suggestions, based upon independent thought of the whole situation, without regard to the judgments of anyone on that side of the water."

"The admiralty was very slow to adopt the protection of convoys and it is not now, I judge, protecting convoys on adequate scale within the danger zone, seeming to keep craft with the grand fleet."

"The absence of craft for convoy is even more apparent on the French coast than on the English coast and in the channel. I do not see how the necessary military supplies of food and fuel are to be delivered at their ports in any other way within the next few months than under adequate convoy. There will presently not be ships or tankers enough and our ship-building plants may not begin to yield important results in less than 18 months."

"I believe that you will keep these instructions absolutely to yourself and that you will give me such advice as you would give if you were handling and if you were running a navy of your own."

No Definite Answer.
Daniels said Sims' reply was "a long telegram of generalities of what the British admiralty was doing," and "that his mind was closed" to plans for bottling up submarines. Sims also cabled according to Daniels, that "regardless of any future developments, we can always count upon the support of the British navy. I have been assured by its important government officials."

This statement, Daniels declared, showed Sims was "hypnotized by their influence," willing to lure the president to rely on assurances not "worth paying the tolls to transmit," and which "a school boy would know could not be binding in a democratic form of government." If Sims could get a signed pledge to this effect, it ought to be filed in the archives of "sops for the simple," Daniels told the committee.

Praises British Navy.
Daniels also asserted that Sims told C. C. Carlin, then congressman from Virginia, visiting London during the war, that "as compared to the British navy, our achievements had amounted to little, that England had protected us upon the sea and we could always rely upon her to do so, and that in view of this friendship there was no necessity for us to desire a navy which would in any way equal that of Great Britain."

Carlin, Daniels said, declared that Sims should be on the British payroll, not America's.

STUDENTS STRIKE WHEN

Albany, New York.—The entire student body of the Albany Law School went on strike today, when Joseph Goldenkoff, recently expelled from the school because of alleged socialist tendencies, returned to the school under protection of an injunction.

The students left the classrooms as soon as Goldenkoff entered the building, leaving only the instructors. Officials of the law school refused to discuss the matter.

Hold Thirteen For Murder Of "Levee King"

Death of "Big Jim" Colosimo Believed to be Result of Feud Between Two Factions of Chicago Underworld

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Thirteen men were held by police today in connection with the murder of "Big Jim" Colosimo, levee king, who was shot to death at the entrance to his cafe here late yesterday.

A dozen theories were advanced by police. That it may be a plot to intimidate friends of the late "Boss" Enright, murdered labor leader, from testifying against several on trial and awaiting trial for the murder of Enright, was indicated today by the discovery of four attempts during the night to set fire to an advertising establishment, belonging to Enright's widow.

Colosimo, formerly an enemy of Enright, recently withdrew his contributions towards the legal support of Enright's alleged murderers.

Hunt Divorced Wife
Police wired Salt Lake City authorities to locate Mrs. Victoria Morasco, divorced wife of Colosimo. She was reported to have arrived in Chicago from Salt Lake 3 hours before the murder and was said to have been seen twice in Chicago's downtown district but police failed to find her.

Dale Winters, girl wife of Colosimo, was released early today by police.

Date Winters was a cabaret singer in Colosimo's cafe. She was a protégé of "Big Jim" and he sent her to the best music teachers to train her voice. She developed an unusually fine voice and was offered several opportunities to go on the stage. Carranza and Tetravini heard her sing and urged her to take up opera but she always refused.

Patron of Music
Colosimo, who started his career here as a street sweeper, was a heavy contributor to grand opera and was well known to the opera stars.

His place was famed for its varied music. It was known internationally for its food, music and "risquéness."

In all his career, Colosimo was raised by one. The extremes of life and death, pickpocket, safe-blower, banker, merchant, stage folks and writers all knew Colosimo's where jazz and Wagnerian selections made up the musical program.

Colosimo married Dale Winters a few days after he divorced his first wife. They had just returned from their honeymoon when he was shot.

SHORTAGE OF CARS CAUSING PLANTS IN WEST TO CLOSE DOWN

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS LOST
DAILY BECAUSE OF UN-
ABILITY TO MOVE MER-CHANDISE

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Industries in the middle west are being forced to shut down because of a shortage of cars for transportation of material, according to reports received by business men here today.

Chicago is losing close to two million dollars a day as a result of the car shortage, according to John M. Glen, president of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association.

Glen estimated Chicago's industries as running at 75 per cent of normal.

"This is the situation also, in the adjoining middle western territory which relies on Chicago for much of its merchandise," he said.

"There are plenty of cars in the country, but the switchmen's strike has upset everything and cars are standing idle on sidetracks loaded with merchandise because they can't be switched."

Packers say there has been some improvement in the car shortage. Livestock shipments, reports show, are increasing daily, though they have not reached the figures which packers say are normal.

Railroad men say there is little hope of relieving the present car shortage until more cars are built.

Food Running Low
New York.—The full force of the tie-up of freight movement due to the "outlaw" strike of railroadmen and the strike of the coastwise longshoremen was felt in New York today.

Thousands of loaded cars stood idle in the terminal yards, while industries suffered from shortage of fuel and raw materials. Food supplies were running low.

The United States grain corporation today relieved an acute flour shortage by offering supplies from reserve stock held for export.

Railroad officials reported their men returning to work and freight movement gradually increasing but reports from concerns today were that their freight shipments were not being handled.

Cars on Sidetracks
Cars destined for New York loaded with freight are delivered at the terminals but because of the lack of "switchmen" the railroads are unable to deliver the cars to their final destinations. Conferees were in progress today looking to a settlement of the strike of coastwise longshoremen. This would considerably relieve the freight congestion in the New York terminal.

Civil service examinations are being conducted for game wardens today at the N. M. C. A. Apartments, mostly for Outagamie county.

REBELS FEAR U.S. IRE IF CARRANZA IS NOT GUARDED

MEXICANS TAKE ALL PRECAUTIONS TO SAFEGUARD LIFE OF THE DEPOSED PRESIDENT

HUERTA IS IN CONTROL

De la Huerta Will Act as Provisional President Until Rebel's Concentration in Mexico City—More Federalists Surrender

By United Press Leased Wire
Revolutionists, headed by General Alvaro Obregon, in control of practically all of Mexico, prepared today to establish the new government.

General De la Huerta will take charge of the new regime in Mexico, establishing a provisional government and making arrangements for the national elections to be held in July.

The revolutionists evidently have established a heavy censorship over developments in the interior of Mexico and only meager advices concerning developments following Carranza's flight from Mexico City have reached this country.

Carranza fled from Mexico City on Friday, according to United Press dispatches, and was overtaken by the rebels at Apizaco. Reports from both Mexico City and Vera Cruz stated rebels clashed with Carranza's forces.

Carranza and the revolutionists claimed victory.

Later advices from Vera Cruz said Carranza was being detained at Esperanza while a commission of revolutionists was sent from Mexico City to provide safe conduct for the deposed president of Vera Cruz.

Representatives of the Obregon government in the United States declared every effort would be made to safeguard Carranza's life. The rebel leaders feared disfavor with the United States government in case Carranza should be mistreated.

Details of the flight of Carranza from Mexico City were received at the State department today from George T. Sumnerlin, chargé there.

"An official bulletin" in Mexico City, announced that forty-three cannon, ten trains of equipment and supplies and one train with funds, of the army of Carranza, had been captured by the revolutionists.

Carranza was said to have taken with him 27,000,000 pesos of government funds. Sumnerlin reported that Carranza's train left the capital about 10 o'clock on the morning of May 7 and that ahead of it went numerous trains carrying troops and equipment. Supplies, records and archives. Artillery and supplies were also held in trains at Mexico City railroad stations some hours after Carranza's flight.

Another report to the department, from Nogales, said Carranza and General Murguia, formerly commander of the federal forces at Mexico City, with a portion of the 5,000 troops, accompanied them from Mexico City and Apizaco, northeast of Puebla City with forces of General Obregon occupying both towns. The only avenue of escape for Carranza is over the mountains and his capture was said to have been momentarily expected by the revolutionists.

Sumnerlin also reported that Deputy Noesgria had been appointed governor of the federal district of Mexico City and that a meeting of deputies and senators had been called to determine whether the presidency had been actually vacated.

Washington.—Fearful of the disfavor of the United States government, Mexican rebel leaders will take all precautions to safeguard the life of former President Carranza, it was said today at the revolutionary mission here.

Carranza might be escorted to some port and be invited to leave, but it was not thought he will be brought to trial.

Pablo Gonzalez, formerly Carranza candidate for president, has effected an agreement with Obregon, also a candidate, and leader of the present revolt, according to advices today to officials and revolutionary agents.

The revolutionary mission here announced it had been advised that an agreement had been effected between Carranza and Obregon, provisional President De la Huerta appointed Juan Sanchez Azcaron to take charge of the foreign office.

A portion of the report that General Canibio Avila, son-in-law of Carranza, had been killed, was made today in a dispatch to the revolutionary mission from Vera Cruz.

Huerta in Charge
(By M. D. Tracy)

Anna Prieta, Sonora—Adolfo De la Huerta, civil chief of the Mexican revolution, will follow General P. Elias Calles to Mexico City to take charge of the Mexican government, it was reported in Agua Prieta today.

De la Huerta was named head of the revolution by the Naco conference of leaders last week.

General Obregon, candidate for the presidency, has placed himself subject to De la Huerta's orders. He will continue to head the government until the revolutionary armies concentrate at Mexico City, when a

CLARES CONVENTION SYS-

NO HOPES FOR JOHNSON

California Senator Hardly in the Running—Gets Support from League Opponents and Dissatisfied Elements

"I consider the primary election law to be one of the worst frauds ever perpetrated on the American people," declared former President William Howard Taft in an interview here yesterday afternoon. The visitor said that under the primary law a man with "big money" and a lot of money can be a candidate regardless of his qualifications for the office he is seeking.

"Your primary election law results in a lot of office seekers ever getting into office and office seekers are not always the best kind of officers," Mr. Taft said. "Political leaders may not always select good men for candidates under the convention system but they must pick a few good men to fight against to their ticket. That is more than can be said for the primary plan. I venture to say that in states where the convention system is in vogue you will find the candidates are of a much higher type than in those states where they are nominated at primaries. I cannot see any reason why the same safeguards cannot be thrown about state and county conventions as those which protect the national convention and the general elections. Conventions may be condemned as machines, controlled but they nominate a better class of men for office."

Primary Idea Spread
Mr. Taft said that the primary election idea spread like wildfire because it was believed it protected the people but experience has shown that the primaries are the biggest aids for politicians because it is easier to control the masses than conventions where men give earnest attention to politics.

Mr. Taft pointed to the last election in Wisconsin as an example of the inequity of the primary law. La Follette delegates were elected because they received the votes of the socialists and dissatisfied elements whereas they probably would have been defeated in a convention attended only by republicans.

Politicians generally recognize that the primary law is a fraud but are afraid to go to the people with their knowledge because they fear it might affect their political life. Conventions represent the attitude of the people more than the primary elections, Mr. Taft said, because only a small proportion of the people vote and they cast their ballots without thought or knowledge of the qualifications possessed by the candidates.

Senator Hiram Johnson cannot possibly get more than 200 votes at the republican national convention in June, Mr. Taft believes. He sees no chance of a possible chance of election.

Johnson has secured the support of the radicals and other elements opposed to the League of Nations and it is doubtful if any other republican candidate can secure more than 25 per cent of the vote given the Californians.

Johnson, in view of his opposition to the treaty in the senate, can never accept the league of nations with the Lodge reservations, Mr. Taft said. He believed that the Wilson telegram to Obregon democrats calling upon them to support the Versailles treaty gives the republicans an excellent opportunity of including the league, with the Lodge reservations, in the party platform, a circumstance which would be most embarrassing to Mr. Johnson. The Californian would be able to get a large number of votes from both Democrats and Republicans dissatisfied with the treaty and with conditions if he ran as an independent candidate. He was in no way to say how the "regular" republicans would vote in the event Johnson would bolt the convention.

The former president said that Johnson will not receive a single delegate vote from the New England states; not more than ten from the middle Atlantic states; none from the "solid south" and only scattering votes in the middle west. His bitter opposition to the league is his biggest argument but there are not enough people in the United States openly opposed to the league to give him a possible chance of election.

Democrat Gets Laugh Out Of G. O. P. Effort

Hitchcock Ridicules Republican Resolution Declaring War Over and Quotes Lodge to Show
Change of Heart.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington.—Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, today opened debate for the democrats on the Knox peace resolution in a speech in which he poked fun at republican efforts to end the war by legislation.

"The mountain has labored and brought forth a mouse," said Hitchcock, and then proceeded to describe the measures which he said republican leaders have at various times sponsored as means of making peace.

"The supporters of Knox's novel plan have staggered from side-to-side over a zig-zag course for nearly six months," Hitchcock said.

"Instead of declaring peace, the Knox resolution now before us declares the war at an end. Thus we have raised the interesting distinction between declaring peace and declaring war at an end. Congress has no power to declare peace—has it then the power to declare war at an end? What is the difference?"

Hitchcock said the request to the president to negotiate with Germany, which is contained in the Knox resolution, is an attempt permanently to desert the allies.

"Senator Lodge," said Hitchcock, "wrote in an article in the Forum magazine in December, 1919, in which he said:

"We cannot in the first place make peace except in company with our allies. It would brand us with everlasting dishonor and bring with it to us if we undertook to make a separate peace."

"In another provision of the resolution, it is stated that the United States does not waive any of its rights under the treaty it has rejected."

"Could anything be more ridiculous than to assume we have any rights to waive after we have refused to ratify the treaty which grants them?"

RIGHT TO PROTECT YANKS IN MEXICO IS G. O. P. DEMAND

REPUBLICANS MAY DEMAND THAT AMERICA PROTECT AMER-ICANS IN MEXICO IN-STEAD OF

(By L. C. Martin)
By United Press Leased Wire
Washington, D. C.—A proposed "Mexican plank" in the republican platform to be written at Chicago, would demand the United States be given the right to protect American lives and property in Mexico if the Mexican government is una-was stated today on high authority.

The proposed plank would call for granting that right by Mexico as the price of American recognition for the new Mexican government, it was stated.

It will demand a firm policy in dealing with Mexican affairs. There will be no advocacy of American intervention, however.

The suggestion, it is said, is to be embodied in a report on Mexican affairs soon to be written by senator Fall of New Mexico, chairman of a senate sub-committee which for several months has been investigating the Mexican question.

The report which it is said will be the platformmakers' model, is expected to recommend that congress refuse to sanction recognition of a new regime in Mexico until that government has entered into an agreement under which the United States could act against lawless elements in Mexico. Recognition could be withheld by congress, by refusal to confirm nomination of an ambassador to Mexico.

Contest Treaty Plank
A contest at the republican convention today as a result of President Wilson's new demand for ratification.

Party leaders at Chicago this week announced an agreement virtually had reached on a plank which would endorse the Lodge reservations.

Senator Borah, leader of the "irreconcilables," issued a statement saying the treaty question must be met without equivocation.

Bottomley resented stories that he was "spoiled" in the commons after his first attack on Lady Nancy.

The visitor reiterated his charges that the viscountess had changed her position on the prohibition question since her accession to the commons.

WILSON WRONG IN HIS ATTITUDE ON LEAGUE TAFT TELLS BIG CROWD

ON LONG TOUR

FORMER PRESIDENT
DOES NOT

LEAGUE IS ESSENTIAL

Treaty is Called Biggest Step in History of the World for Preservation of Peace—Senate
Differences Are Minor

Former President William Howard Taft differs utterly and emphatically with President Wilson's assertion that the League of Nations covenant will be rendered worthless if Article 10 is eliminated, he declared in a splendid address to more than 1,500 people at Lawrence Memorial chapel last evening.

"I am just as anxious for a League of Nations as President Wilson is. I have strived for it ten years but I disagree emphatically with the president when he says that elimination of article 10 will make the league of nations worthless. Even if that clause is thrown out the covenant will be the greatest step ever taken for the preservation of peace. The league will still provide for limitation of armaments, peaceful settlement of disputes and open diplomacy. Fully 90 per cent of the league will still be useful for the prevention of war."

The big chapel was filled to the doors when the distinguished visitor began his address. Several hundred people from Green Bay, Kaukauna, New London, Neenah, Menasha and Manitowish were in attendance. Dr. Samuel Plantz announced next year's lecture and artist series course. Community singing opened the program. Mr. Taft was introduced by Attorney F. S. Bradford who described the speaker as a man safe and sane on all public matters.

Article X Not Essential
Mr. Taft said that article X is useful but not essential to the success of the league. That article does not become effective until long after Article 16, which provides for economic boycott of nations which reject decisions of the supreme council, is effective and that clause has not been touched in the Lodge reservations.

The former president declared that the difference between the two factions in the senate which desire a league of nations but differ over the wording of reservations is so slight that the American people have a right to demand that they waive the verbal necessities and get together on the treaty so that the American people may enjoy its benefits.

Can Demand Treaty
"The President has said he will veto the resolutions declaring that peace exists between Germany and the United States, now pending in the congress. If he vetoes that resolution it renders his obligation to bring about a peace more acute, but he says he will not permit ratification of the league of nations and peace treaty unless every 'If' is dotted and every 'And' is crossed. We who long for a league of nations have a right to demand of Congress that it waive its verbal differences and we have a right to remind the president that he is only one of the two branches of the government which have the treaty making power and that if the senate is willing to waive its difference we have the right to demand that the president also waive something so that we can achieve the greatest step forward in the history of the world."

Must Take World View
The speaker asserted that America cannot use the word leadership which it has attained for its own personal aggrandizement but must take a larger view of world affairs. Europe needs America's help to get on its feet and America needs the help of Europe to stop the onslaught of Bolshevism and it needs Europe as a market for its goods.

"When America takes its seat at the table of the league of nations, it will stand from a world standpoint and then it will see more plainly how America can best help itself by helping the world."

Differences between the senate factions desiring the league but differing on reservations were gently ridiculed by the speaker. He said that ten years from now those men will be amazed at the attitude they took and that if these men were deprived of memory help and the reservations read to them they would not be sure which of them they were supporting.

Reduce Armaments
The former president asserted one of the greatest objects of the league is to bring about reduction of armaments. He said that the council of the league will prepare a plan for disarmament but that it has no way of enforcing its advice.

Objection to the league because it creates a "super-government" was answered by the former president who said that the league has no means of enforcing any of its decisions and that it can act only in an advisory capacity. There is not a clause in the league of nations covenant which gives the league the authority to employ force to carry out its work and it leaves to every nation under the league and the means of fulfilling this obligation.

Mr. Taft reviewed the history of the league and explained the various clauses and the reservations in de-

DRYS START DRIVE TO PUT DRY PLANKS IN PARTY PLATFORMS

CHAIRMAN OF PROHIBITION NA-TIONAL COMMITTEE URGES
PRESURE ON THE DELEGATES

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—A nation-wide appeal was sent out today by the prohibition national committee urging drys to rally to the support of the party in forcing conventions of the major parties to adopt dry planks in the platforms.

Charitable that wets are making a hard drive to repeal the Volstead act and to nullify the eighteenth amendment, Virgil G. Hinshaw, chairman of the prohibition national committee, stated that the situation is serious and that it is up to prohibitionists to take quick drastic action to crush the wet drive.

He urged churches, Sunday schools, young people's societies, men's and women's clubs, fraternal societies, commercial clubs, chambers of commerce, labor unions, garages, etc., to adopt resolutions demanding that both the republican and democratic conventions include dry planks in their platforms.

Resolutions are to be mailed to senators, congressmen, Kansas and Sheppard of Texas and Congressman C. H. Randall, of California.

"The liquor minority purposes to attain its ends by capturing the national conventions of the political parties which meet soon," reads the appeal sent out from dry headquarters and signed by Hinshaw.

"If it can not secure an outspoken expression in its behalf from the platform of such parties, its next resort will be to get these parties and their candidate to be silent."

"The crisis is very real. Time is short. Immediate action may save the 18th amendment. Congress will now support permanent national prohibition."

SEVEN FEET CANNIBALS
ATTACK U. S. EXPLORERS

By United Press Leased Wire
New York.—Blonde Indians, seven feet tall, who wore tiger claws through their lips and little else in the way of garment, attacked the exploratory party headed by Dr. Alexander Hamilton Rice, for four days along the Orinoco river, continually raining spears and arrows upon the white men, according to Dr. Rice, who has just returned from the South American trip.

The Indian whom the explorer believes to have been members of the Guahibes, last reported by a Spanish party in 1763, refused to negotiate with the Rice party. Dr. Rice believes them to have been cannibals.

According to Dr. Rice's story, fear of the explorers' firearms alone kept the Indian giants from taking scalps.

FLAG PRESENTATION IS MOST IMPRESSIVE

WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS GIVES BANNER TO ONEY JOHN-
STON POST LAST EVENING

Impressive services marked the presentation of a beautiful new flag to the Oney Johnston post of the American Legion by the Women's Relief Corps and the George D. Eggleston post of the Grand Army of the Republic. The armory was well filled with members of the Legion and various patriotic organizations. A presentation speech, that ably expressed the feelings of the corps in conferring this honor was made by Mrs. Jane Beach, historian. J. D. Hanchett, post commander of the G. A. R., also made fitting remarks; and Mrs. Edward G. Schueler, president of the Women's Relief Corps, spoke briefly, expressing the sentiment of the corps in handing the banner to the new generation of veterans.

Response on behalf of the Legion was made by Capt. Homer H. Benton, newly elected post commander. He expressed the gratitude of every member of the Oney Johnston post for the gracious bestowal of the banner to their possession, saying that it was accepted in the spirit in which the ladies gave it. He assured them that the Legion members would live true to its traditions.

The program was enhanced by vocal selections by Mrs. F. P. Doherty.

BEG YOUR PARDON

Through a mistake in figures, the amount paid by John Boehler for the ten acre Brainerd farm in Grand Chute was made to read $2750 in a recent news item, making it appear that the sale of the property to James Coonen for $5,500 netted a profit of 100 per cent. The original purchase price should have been $4750, leaving a margin of $750, part of which was extended for a silo and other improvements.

LAWRENCE CLASS PLAY IN THE NEW CHAPEL

The ticket sale for "The Rivals," class play to be given this year by Lawrence college, opened today. The sororities are conducting the sale under the direction of Ralph Nichols, advertising manager. Each sorority has three representatives and a leader for its team. The sorority which makes the highest ticket sale will receive a picture of Maxfield Parish. A team of Appleton high school boys is also adding in the sale.

The play will be given Monday night, May 17, in the Lawrence Memorial chapel, the first class play to be presented there. A new curtain has been secured for the back stage to harmonize with the one in front.

The play itself is one which promises interest. It is a clever comedy of highly entertaining situations and mixed identities. Each part is to be exceptional this year as great care has been taken in the selection of the cast.

COUNTRY GIRL CHARGED WITH STEALING $9,000 TO FURTHER HER AM-BITIONS

Washington, D. C.—The climax to a pretty country girl's desire to shine as a society favorite came on Tuesday with the imprisonment in the county jail of Margaret Yoders, 18 years old, charged with the theft of over $9,000 from the grocery establishment of Joseph Spriggs' Sons, where she was employed as cashier.

Miss Yoders, who came to Washington from the country home of her father, Leo Yoders, two years ago and entered a business college, was arrested upon her release from a hospital, where she had been for two months recovering from the effects of poison taken, it is said, when first confronted with the discovery of her alleged peculations.

Members of the grocery firm claim the thefts cover a period of about nine months, a sum of money ranging from $2 to $600 having been taken daily.

The alleged misappropriation was not discovered until experts began making up the firm's income tax return.

When confronted with alleged evidence of her peculations, Miss Yoders, it is said, went into a toilet room, and swallowed poison. Immediate discovery of her condition saved her life, but she has since been in a hospital.

Miss Yoders, who had entered into fashionable society, on account of her childish appearance, smart clothes and apparent refinement, had purchased two automobiles within the last few months, spreading the report, the police assert, that she had been left a small fortune by an aunt who died.

Goodyear Leadership— and Tires for the Smaller Cars

Enormous resources and scrupulous care have produced in Goodyear Tires for the smaller cars a high relative value not exceeded even in the famous Goodyear Cords on the world's highest-priced automobiles.

In addition to its larger sizes, Goodyear manufactures an average of 20,000 small car tires a day in the world's largest tire factory devoted solely to the 30x3-, 30x3½, and 31x4-inch sizes.

Last year more cars using these sizes were factory-equipped with Goodyear Tires than with any other kind.

Their extreme worth is available for your Ford, Chevrolet, Dort, Maxwell, or other car using one of these sizes, at the nearest Goodyear Service Station. Go there for these tires and Goodyear Heavy Tourist Tubes.

GOOD YEAR

tail. He said that most of the reservations merely stated America's position but that a few of them change the obligation incurred by the United States.

The peace resolutions now before Congress were characterized as an unsatisfactory way of ending the state of war now existing between the United States and Germany and intimated that their constitutionality may be disputed.

First League Idea

Mr. Taft said that while he was president he negotiated treaties with Great Britain and France in which was agreed to submit justiciable questions to a court of arbitration and abide by the results. His object was to later negotiate treaties with other nations and hoped that European countries would arrange similar treaties between themselves, thus establishing an international court of arbitration which would really be a league of nations which would lessen the possibility of war. The senate, however, cut and hampered the treaties until there was nothing left and they were shelved by Mr. Taft.

The speaker told of the League to Enforce Peace which had four principal objects, one of which was that the United States, at the conclusion of the war was to join the league of nations and assist in bringing about a condition which would minimize the possibility of another great armed conflict between nations. Similar organizations were formed in the allied nations and American commissions to those countries found a very real desire for a league of nations and this desire was expressed when the European premieres were given the support of their people on their promise that they would strive for a league.

telligently discuss the reservations it is necessary to thoroughly understand the league. He described it as a covenant in which the member nations agreed to refrain from doing certain things which will lead to war and all agree to punish those nations which violate this covenant. There is no authority given the league to construe what the obligations of nations are—that is left to each nation to decide for itself. "If there is not a spirit of co-operation among the member nations, the league will be worthless but I am confident that there is this co-operation and I feel the league will be most effective," the former president said.

The speaker said the league is governed by a council of nine members, five selected by the five great powers and four representing four nations selected by the body of the league. There is also an assembly which is nothing more than a convention with each member nation having one vote. "The functions of the council are recommendatory, advisory and to propose," Mr. Taft said. "It has been argued that the council has the power of enforcement but if that is the case those powers should read, command and order instead of recommend, advise and propose. If the conclusion of league opponents depends upon this perversion of the meaning of those words then their entire argument falls flat." He said that the assembly has no powers except to elect new members of the league and to advise when treaties are in violation of the covenant but has no power of enforcement.

The former president asserted that the armament race in Europe was the cause of the late war and he asserted that if all nations of the world agree to reduce their military forces to defensive proportions the possibility of future destructive wars is immeasurably decreased. He ventured the assertion that after America's armament is fixed, Congress will never come within gunshot of reaching it with its appropriations. In the last 30 years America has had hardly sufficient armament for police protection, much less for defense, Mr. Taft said.

Boycott Provided For
Mr. Taft explained article 16

Knights of Pythias will give an informal dancing party at the K. P. Hall Thursday, May 13th for Knights and their friends. Scholl's Jazzfiends. $1.00 per couple.

President Wilson, although not always a supporter of the league plan, was converted and Mr. Taft said that Wilson's sympathy with the league was a factor in the mighty demonstrations with which he was greeted on the other side. Morale of the allies was immeasurably increased when they were given assurance that the league would give them a peace that was more than a mere truce.

Hoped For Success

"The senate has debated the peace treaty for 18 months," said Mr. Taft. "I don't want to criticize them for that; this is a most important question and deserves debate but I do believe that those eighteen months of discussion could have been compressed into nine."

The speaker divided the senate into three camps—16 senators opposed to a league of any kind, 40 favoring the league with reservation and 40 without reservations. He said that the second time the treaty came to a vote it lacked the support of only seven senators to insure ratification and hoped that the third attempt would be successful.

Has No Authority

Mr. Taft said that in order to inwhich provides that an economic boycott is to be declared against nations which refuse to accept the decisions of the supreme council and go to war either before the council has rendered its decision or refuses to submit its international controversies to arbitration.

Open diplomacy which provides that all treaties be recorded in the secretariat of the league was lauded by the former president. He declared that this will give all nations an opportunity of studying the agreements between countries in order to determine their own obligations.

Mr. Taft divided the 14 Lodge reservations into three groups—six which are merely interpretive; two which declare constitutional law and six which qualify or destroy America's obligations. He showed that at least two of the reservations were prepared to make it clear to the president that Congress has a hand in treaty making and he deprecated the reservation to the withdrawal to the league clause which excludes the president from any part in determining when the United States shall leave the league fold.

The Monroe Doctrine

The speaker explained that the

If You Need a Medicine You Should Have the Best

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain—the article did not fulfill the promise of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value almost sells itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited, to those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend, for in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact, so many people claim, that it fulfills almost every wish in overcoming kidney, liver and bladder troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents, also mention the Appleton Post-Crescent. Large and medium size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

league covenant provides that domestic questions shall not be submitted to arbitration and held that the interpretive reservation to that clause was useless. He also showed that the reservation to the Monroe doctrine clause did not make any changes in the meaning of the covenant, although Senate factions have submitted different reservations and apparently are not agreed because of differences in wording.

The six reservations which do affect America's obligations relate to armament, article 10 England's representation in the league, payment of expenses and clauses relating to labor and to disposition of Shantung.

Mr. Taft could see no harm in the reservation providing that America would retain the right to increase its armament in the event of threatened invasion without the consent of the supreme war council but would deprecate spreading of this doctrine to European countries who might increase their military forces on rather slender pretexts. He said he did not believe America would abuse that privilege.

Article 10 Is Out

All three reservations to Article to destroy America's obligation to use its military, naval and economic forces to preserve the territorial integrity and political independence, Mr. Taft said. The reservations differ only in wording and the speaker ridiculed the senatorial factions for the seriousness with which they debated a few words which in no way changed the meanings of either the three proposed changes. He declared that he agrees that the pledge to use American men to fight battles in other countries when America has no interest in the controversies might prove too great a burden and he is not adverse to removing the obligation.

The speaker explained that England agrees with America that it should not have more than one vote in deliberations in which the two countries are affected. He also said that the reservation providing that in cases of disputes between Great Britain or its dominions and America, neither the mother country nor any of its possessions should have a voice.

England also concurs in this view, Mr. Taft said.

Slap At President

The attitude of the senators toward payment of America's share of the cost of conducting the league of nations was condemned by the speaker who said that the principal object of the reservation was to inform the president that congress has something to say about how America shall be represented. Congress would be consulted even if the reservation had not been adopted and therefore it is practically valueless, Mr. Taft said.

The speaker closed his address with a plea that America take a larger view of world problems and expressed the hope that if President Wilson does not permit ratification of the treaty that the next president will make it possible for America to enjoy its benefits.

INSTALL MACHINES IN NEW PLANT OF INSTANT HEAT CO.

COMPANY WILL BEGIN MANUFACTURE NOT LATER THAN JUNE 1—MAKE FIVE PRODUCTS

Good progress is being made in getting the new factory of the Appleton Wonder Instant Heat company into operation. The machinery, chemicals and aluminum for use in the manufacture of the company's products are on hand and it is the hope of the management to have the plant running by June 1.

The building formerly occupied by the Appleton Brewery and Malt company, is to be the location of the new industry. All the malting machinery has been moved out, minor alterations made on the buildings, and the place cleaned up in readiness for occupancy by the new company. Installation of the machinery will start tomorrow and will be pushed with all possible speed so that the orders now on the books for dry heat "water bottles" may be filled.

Make Five Products

Five secret formulas owned by the company will give a varied program of production from the start. The heat bottles are to be made of pure aluminum and contain chemicals which produce heat by exposure to air, the heat being retained from five to seven hours. The bottles may also be used for refrigeration purposes. By placing one on ice while the contents is liquid and letting it remain there for 20 minutes, it will retain its rigid qualities for a long time. Post warmers for carriages and automobiles are to be made and a formula has been completed for a flat iron which will produce 315 degrees of dry heat for long periods.

Forge proof ink and mudclag complete the products that will be made at the start. A number of Appleton firms are trying out these products. The ink cannot be removed from paper once it is placed there, but is easily removed from the hand or clothing with soap and water.

SURVEY DATA WILL HELP TO APPLETON

EXPERT IN COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT WILL ASSIST IN SOCIAL SURVEY OF THE CITY

Edgar B. Gordon, chief of the Bureau of Community Development of the Extension Division of the University of Wisconsin met with the local recreational committee for the social survey at the public library at 4:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Gordon will assist the local department and act in an advisory capacity in the work which the department will do in the survey.

While spending many years in recreational work in the Chicago Commons and in places in this state also, Mr. Gordon has been a keen student of recreational conditions and development. Through his experience, Mr. Gordon hopes to be able to help the department to help itself in procuring all the recreational data concerning this community.

The committee studied the general recreational questionnaire prepared by the Red Cross and made several minor changes to fit local conditions. A definite interpretation was put on all the questions asked so that all the workers might get uniform results. Mr. Gordon will also assist in the analysis of the data when it has been procured.

Mr. Gordon said, "The result of the data gathered will enable Appleton to develop a fine program. It will make Appleton a better place to live. Such information can be utilized for activities already undertaken and result in much better development along many lines."

FOREST FIRES RAGING IN NORTHERN WISCONSIN

"Forest fires were raging everywhere and at one place I saw piles containing over a million feet of lumber going up in smoke," said Fred Miller, who spent Sunday with relatives at Summit Lake. The fire departments of both Elcho and Pearson were called on for assistance. Mr. Miller said that the fire was not under control when he left there and was spreading rapidly. The heavy rain Monday came at a very opportune time. Flies and mosquitoes had already made their appearance in the woods.

TAFT URGES BOY SCOUTS TO KEEP THEIR IDEALS HIGH

FORMER PRESIDENT CONGRATULATES APPLETON BOYS ON MEMBERSHIP IN SCOUTS

Fully 600 boys had the pleasure of hearing Hon. William Howard Taft last evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. About 200 of them were Boy Scouts and the remainder were boys of scout age. Mr. Taft is honorary vice-president of the Boy Scouts of America and consented to speak to the boys for a few minutes.

The appearance of the former president was greeted with a scout yell that showed more than anything else could how the lads appreciated his visit. He complimented them on the reception given him and commended the cheer leader who could put such "zip" into a greeting.

"I am glad to greet you," said Mr. Taft in opening his address. "I congratulate Appleton on having so many Boy Scouts. It indicates a proper state of mind on the part of the boys' families. It shows that you realize that it is well to begin life and continue life with discipline and appreciation of what is best for you in the way of formation of habits and following out of duty."

Should Keep Busy
"Boys, don't think there is anything to do but find out ways of enjoying yourselves. If you had all the time in the world to enjoy yourselves and do nothing, you wouldn't enjoy yourselves at all. After while time would begin to hang heavy on your hands. Satan finds things for idle hands to do. You will look into evil ways because things are dull. When you have things to do, then the time that you have to play becomes most desirable."

The real pleasure and happiness comes from the joy of service, Mr. Taft continued. He stated that this was one of the outstanding principles of the Boy Scout organization and that the compensation for doing things for others is the retrospect that they have done something worth while. Tribute was paid to Gen. Sir Baden Powell of England, founder of the scout organization. What he had done was not appreciated until the war came.

Keep Ideals High

"Most of you were old enough to appreciate war," the speaker went on, "but none of you were old enough to have been in it. You understand the thrill and exaltation of patriotic feeling that came with the war. You watched your fathers or brothers march out to fight for the flag. You had that earnest desire to go yourselves. That is the lesson most Americans did not have. You have felt it yourselves. That is going to be very useful to you throughout life. Keep your ideals high in respect to the sacrifices you feel obligated to make. You will be better men, better Americans if you follow the principles of the Boy Scout movement."

LAW STREET BRIDGE IS RELIC OF THE PAST

One of the most dilapidated structures in Appleton is the old Law street bridge, a portion of which was carried out by spring freshets. The ends where the current is most rapid are submerged in the water and the rest of the structure is crooked as a rail fence and varies in height. The section that went out includes that part involved in the fatal coasting accident of a quarter of a century ago that resulted in the death of three persons and the injury of several others when a double runner loaded with young people plunged through the wooden railing on the east side to the icy waters below.

REGULATE THE JITNEY
The proposal to place the jitney busses operating within the city limits under municipal regulation is proper and timely. The jitney is engaged in the business of transportation for profit. It is a common carrier, using the streets and public highways, and as at present operated pays nothing for the privilege. It is in direct competition with the Traction company which has constructed a transportation system at great cost and which is a public convenience of first importance. The Traction company is a heavy taxpayer, is a responsible corporation under regulation by both the municipality and the state of Wisconsin. It operates under certain fixed charges and liabilities which cannot be modified or removed, and its value to the community is measured to a large degree by its ability to conduct its business profitably and constructively.

There can be no objection to the running of jitney busses or other conveyances for transportation as a matter of legal and moral right, but the question to what extent they shall be allowed to operate in competition with street railways is a matter of public policy with which the municipality may legitimately concern itself. In the opinion of The Post-Crescent the jitney running in competition of the street railway ought to be placed under such regulations as will tend to equalize the competition.

We are not prepared to say what the conditions should be, that is a question for the city to determine. But we should bear in mind the fact in undertaking this regulation, if it is undertaken, that the street railway system is one of our foremost assets, that it represents a permanent investment, that it provides service constantly and reliably day in and day out and that whatever tends to impair its resources or its revenues in the end reacts detrimentally upon the public and the city itself. We believe this is a subject that ought to receive the careful attention of the city council and particularly since its attention has been directed to the question by the action of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce.

THE WISCONSIN AND NORTHERN EXTENSION
Appleton is to be congratulated upon the decision of the Wisconsin and Northern railroad to extend its line into Neenah where connection will be made with the Soo line. This will be of direct benefit to the Wisconsin and Northern by affording it an outlet to Milwaukee and Chicago for the through business which it generates in the territory it serves. It will materially enhance the value of the property as a whole and is a logical step from the standpoint of both investment and service.

Not the least of the advantages to be gained by this extension will accrue to Appleton. Not only will it give shippers here additional facilities for reaching Milwaukee, Chicago and the south, but it will in effect place them directly upon the main division of the Soo line. It has long been the desire of commercial interests here to have access to the Soo line, and the extension of the Wisconsin and Northern will bring about this result.

The greatest asset that any community can have is adequate transportation. Since the decline of water transportation cities have not as a rule made railroads, but railroads have made innumerable cities. Every additional rail facility, whether steam or electric, is a force which takes first place in the growth and development of any city. Transportation induces new industries, the expansion of existing industry and the building up of retail and wholesale business. The Wisconsin and Northern railroad is essentially an Appleton enterprise. Its value to the city will be increased with the progressive development of the road, and the extension to Neenah is an improvement which will greatly raise the usefulness of the property and which in due time should make it a profitable enterprise. It is to the interest of Appleton to see that the Wisconsin and Northern resources are strengthened in every way possible, which is another way of saying that the project now about to be engaged in should have the hearty cooperation of the people of this city.

McCUMBER AND THE KNOX RESOLUTION
It would be well for his colleagues as well as for the country at large, to give careful consideration to what Senator McCumber (Republican) said yesterday in his speech on the Knox resolution for a separate peace with Germany. Mr. McCumber has from the start been one of the few men in the senate to refuse to have his action and vote on the peace treaty and league of nations governed by party politics. That was his attitude when the league of nations was under consideration, and it is his attitude on the question of a separate peace. He perceives what the country perceives, that on the issues of peace the "lines of division between the two factions in this body have been cemented by partisanship and set and hardened by time." It is to Mr. McCumber's high credit as a legislator and as an American citizen that he has declined to be cemented with the rest.

The senator shows in his speech the utter impossibility of making the league of nations a campaign issue, because the "thought of the people is engrossed with the complexities (domestic) that surround us," which include "debts, national, state, municipal, industrial piling mountain high," an atmosphere "poisoned by socialism's infectious breath" and the "new system of purchasing political support by enacting class legislation" at the expense of the people. And, he continues, the people will vote for a change in administration to obtain relief, "treaty or no treaty, peace resolution or no peace resolution, league of nations or no league of nations." All of which is perfectly true, so far as indications now point. Certain it is that the questions of the treaty cannot be made an issue of the campaign upon which there is any hope of receiving a decisive vote.

Why, then, pleads Senator McCumber in effect, should the party make the fatal mistake of adopting a course it may forever regret for the sake of partisanship which will accomplish no result. "If," says the senator, the league of nations were "the real and only issue I would be greatly concerned for the success of my own party," and if it persists in the course those hostile to the league and treaty seem determined to commit it he confesses "even now a deep sense of sympathy for the humiliation that awaits it." While admitting that congress might possess the power to repeal resolutions declaring war, he denied the assertion of Senator Knox that peace actually existed, and in this he is of course right.

Pointing out that many great questions arising from the war can only be settled by treaty, including German property, American claims, commercial privileges and alleged military violations by Germany of the Versailles agreement which may involve an attempt to revive militarism, Senator McCumber issued this warning to his colleagues: "We are saying (by this resolution) to France and England: 'You make Germany comply with her agreement.' That we have deserted our allies is bad enough. That we have deserted their cause and thereby condemned it is far worse. The position we are placing our country in is a shameful one and I can never support it by my vote."

Men who in the name of politics would commit the United States to an act which the country at the close of hostilities would have risen in arms against have a small conception of American honor or of what America went to war for. Our relation to the allies today is no different than it was armistice day, so far as the responsibilities of making peace are concerned. Nor can we, or any party, escape those responsibilities even though, as Mr. McCumber says, it were true that the president is more to blame than anyone else for the failure to make a common treaty. The Knox resolution deserts the allies, abandons the cause we went to war for, leaves them to deal single-handed with Germany now and hereafter. Nothing the administration has or has not done can possibly be made to justify such a course. If the Republican party in congress does not heed Senator McCumber now the day will come when it will wish it had, for history does not excuse blunders made in the name of politics.

How I Fared From Twelve to Eighteen Months
After Dr. Nature's Quicklunch had gone out of business, as I described in Chapter sixteen, they put me on the bottle, and I found the formula of modified milk for a baby half my age—that is, a baby about 5 months old—just right to begin with: 10 ounces of top milk, one ounce of milk sugar, and 10 ounces of boiled water or oatmeal water or barley water, as I described in Chapter sixteen. Of course, the strength of this was increased rapidly, so that within a month or six weeks I was taking my milk practically unmodified.

From the time I was a year old until I became eighteen months old my fare was about like this:

Diet of Healthy Child from Twelve to Eighteen Months Old
Breakfast—6:30 a. m.: Six ounces of milk, diluted with oatmeal or barley gruel, two ounces. Twice baked bread (zwitbach).
8 to 9 a. m.: An ounce or two of orange juice or prune juice or peach juice.
Lunch—10 a. m.: Milk from a cup.
Dinner—Noon: A cupful (6 ounces) of beef, chicken, or mutton broth. Or the white of a poached egg. A teaspoonful or two of potato or any other fresh vegetable well boiled and strained through a sieve. Crackers or toast twice baked bread and a little butter. Milk, 8 ounces.
Afternoon lunch—3 p. m.: Milk, 8 ounces; a cracker.
Supper—(bedtime): Oatmeal gruel, or barley gruel, or farina or arrowroot, thinly made, and thoroughly boiled. Apple sauce or other stewed fruit pulp, without fibre or seeds. Toast and milk.

Between meals I had all the cool water I cared for. I would take anywhere from one to eight ounces at a time.

My gruels were always cooked two hours at least, and oatmeal gruel three hours, in a double boiler. A little salt was added, but no sugar. At the third month I gave up using the bottle and took my milk always from a cup. Some kids stick to the bottle habit so long that it seems to deform their palate, and my dad thinks, sometimes it even deforms the face and produces mouth breathing, like adenoids.

Of course, I learned to take water from a cup or spoon first.

The fruit juices and stewed fruit pulp (obtained by squeezing the stewed prunes, peaches, apples, or other fresh fruit through a course muslin or a sieve) served to keep my bowels active.

The fresh meat broth or soup supplied vitamins.

The fare I had is not exactly suited to every healthy baby from twelve to eighteen months old, but I have set it down here as a sort of guide for mothers to use in feeding babies of that age. Later I will tell what I had to eat as I grew older.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Keep the Cart Behind the Horse
Will you please mention all the diseases which might cause the following symptoms: Puffiness under the eyes, drowsiness, dull headaches at times, weak kidneys.
ANSWER—I have found it unwise to hitch the cart before the horse. A doctor should not suggest diseases for the patient to try over on his symptoms. Your list suggests no disease in particular. "Weak kidneys," is an almanac phrase which may mean nothing or anything. May I suggest rather that you need a physical examination by your doctor to determine whether there is anything wrong and if so what.

The Brainless Doctors
.....then the doctor showed me how to wash out every alternate day with glycerine. recently I have had over thirty adjustments, but I seem to be worse instead of better.

ANSWER—My advice is that you consult an urologist for a diagnosis. If you know of none, send me a stamped envelope addressed to yourself and I will suggest a competent one.

Petrolatum for Constipation
A friend of mine told me that a teaspoonful of vaseline taken at night was good for the bowels. I have tried it for two weeks and find it very satisfactory. Will it do any harm to continue it indefinitely? (K. M. M.)
ANSWER—No. It is more satisfactory in some cases of constipation than the liquid petrolatum so commonly used.

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO
Wednesday, May 15, 1895
Mrs. Thomas Howe was visiting her sister, Mrs. Jasper Tracy.
The cold weather the night previous drove six traps into the police station for lodging.
Several members of the Knights of Pythias visited the Neenah lodge the night previous. The order of the Orient was established and a banquet was served.
Neenah schoolmen had organized a club to resist the passage by Neenah council of a bell and lamp-on-wheel ordinance.
The improvements to the water power facilities of the Manufacturing Investment company plant was about to begin by the excavation of a canal which was to connect the power house of the plant with the Telulah water power canal, thus permitting the drawing of water from either the government canal or the Telulah canal, or both.
A slight change was made in the stockholders of the Appleton Pickle and Preserving company, Humphrey Pierce having sold his interest to H. E. Coats of Neenah. The new officers of the company were: President, B. C. Wolter; vice president, George Downer; secretary, treasurer and manager, W. H. Rogers; superintendent of manufacture, M. R. Ford.
Miss Myrtle More and Richard VanWyk were married the evening previous at the Congregational parsonage by Dr. John Faville.
Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Brooks, the venerable parents of Mrs. George Downer, were to celebrate their golden wedding anniversary at their home at Seymour on June 1.
The dance of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at the armory the night previous was well attended. Dana's orchestra furnished the music and refreshments were provided by Caterer T. J. Griffin.

Confessions of a Bride
(Copyright, 1920, by The Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.)
Bob insists That I Drop Spiritism—and I Silently Agree
"No use for us to insist that we can't possibly believe in ouija!" I said to Bob after glancing over the heads in my favorite newspaper.
"What's up now, my dear?" queried Bob.
"Chrys and Katherine Miller have turned a startling stunt this time," I murmured with my nose still buried deep in the column. "It was via the ouija board that their sister Chrys grabbed off that Rasputin stuff about the German and Russian conspiracy to restore kaiserdom and czarism. That happened two weeks ago. And now the plot has been discovered by Paris detectives!" I explained. "Behold! Here in the paper is the very story the girls got at their Honolulu seance. Now, Bob Lorimer, will you believe?"
Bob came over and sat down at my side.
"The whole darn scheme—sure enough! Just as we have it in the letters! They were written three weeks ago! By jove! It's interesting to say the least!" he exclaimed.
Then we read the details as printed in the paper. Oznobichine, chamberlain of the late czar and former member of the duma, had been arrested in Paris as the head of a vast conspiracy. The account covered the ouija story exactly as it had been outlined by "Rasputin" and accepted by Chrys, three weeks back! Russian aristocrats, assisted by German junkers and German arms, planned to restore the imperial court of Russia and set a Romanoff upon the throne.
"Interesting—but merely a coincidence, after all," asserted my husband. "All darn rot—that ouija stuff! Of course such a plot was to be expected. But Great Snakes! How Chrys will stick to it as proof positive that we can communicate with the unseen world! Now she has evidence of a genuine 'revelation,' and no silly bunk either, but matter of the greatest importance, direct from the spirit world 21 days before the wires carried the news! Gosh! There ought to be a ouija board in every newspaper office!"
Then my husband frowned in his most dramatic manner and addressed me:
"Jane Lorimer! Are you going in for that kind of nonsense? I'll—divorce you if you take it up!"
Oh, I'm glad! Now you see exactly how the new cult divides families!" I said. "Really sensible relatives quarrel about it! The person who believes always manages to run the rest of the tribe somehow! Consider Chrysobel. As long as she sticks to her dad, her family is bound to be hampered. Either we have got to give up our lovely Chrys, as poor Jordan Spence decided to do, or we have got to listen to her twaddle about mysticism. There's no compromise in her!"
"Better you drop it, Jane, and drop it for good. I don't want to hear a word about it again!" announced my lord and master. "I'm not going to have my bungalow divided against itself by any such bunk, I assure you!"
Now when a husband talks like that what is an independent American girl to do?
Of course I didn't agree to surrender my private opinion—not immediately—and not in words—but in my own mind I decided to have done forever with everything connected with spiritism.
I had to admit to myself that I had been considerably attracted by ouija manifestations, and I suppose lots of women are just as susceptible as I am, but men, I think, are harder to convince.
"It's easy for humans to believe in bunk and hard for them to reason," said my husband. "You women love romance, and if you can't understand a thing, you think it must be true! You prefer obscure statements to perfectly plain facts!"
"Maybe I prefer to see things the way my husband sees them!" I said meekly. And then I hummed a line from "Ruddigore":
"It really doesn't matter, matter, matter!"
"What if it did matter, matter, matter?" asked Bob.
"I slipped over to his side and gave him a good hug. I couldn't answer. I couldn't say whether I would compromise with him about a thing which did matter."

Yonder stands the Grouch Man
Where the storm is humm'ing,
Only consolation
Is—he "knowed it was a-comin'!"
When Joy is high an' low
He swings the sign o' woe—
"Livin' with old Thunder

Hi, Mister Grouch Man,
In the lonesome weather!
Don't you hear the music
Where we're singin' all together?
Joy is what we know
Where the fire's singin' so!
An' you're livin' with Thunder,
An' prophesyin' snow!"
III.
Come, Mister Grouch Man—
Here's a fireplace:
Want to see the bright light
Run the wrinkles from your face?
Come where blessings flow
And flowers in April grow—
Quit livin' with old Thunder
An' prophesyin' snow!"

OMRO FARMERS ABLE TO PLANT EARLIER
Grain and vegetation on the upper Fox river is about two weeks ahead of that of the lower river, according to Ira D. Flansburg, who has just returned from a visit with friends at Omro. Grain in that part of the state is up two or three inches, pasture is good, garden truck is all in and farmers are getting their corn ground ready. He attributes the difference to the soil which contains considerable sand.

FREE NEGRO SLAYER OF MAN WHO WRONGED GIRL

By United Press Leased Wire
Lancaster, Wis.—Jack Green, aged negro slayer of George Duncan, prominent Lancaster lumber dealer, who, he claimed, wronged his 14-year-old daughter, Deena, was acquitted by a jury in circuit court here late yesterday.
"Justifiable homicide," was the verdict returned by the jury which was out less than two hours.
Duncan, married and the father of several children, was found dead in his auto near the Green farm, November 3, last.
Green, who confessed he shot Duncan when the latter drove up near the farm, declared he had warned Duncan to stay away from his daughter.
The trial lasted two days.

INDIANA DELEGATES WILL VOTE FOR WOOD

By United Press Leased Wire
Indianapolis, Ind.—Republicans at the state convention came out flat-footed for Major General Wood as their candidate for the G. O. P. nomination here today.
Addressing the convention in the keynote speech, U. S. Senator James E. Watson declared he was pledged to vote for Wood at the national convention and was authorized to pledge the vote of the three "regular" candidates for delegates-at-large.
The other three whom Watson claimed have pledged themselves for Wood, are: U. S. Senator Harry S. New, Governor James P. Goodrich and State Chairman Ed. Wasmuth.
Supporters of Senator Hiram Johnson, of California, opposed the instruction of the delegation.

TWO FOREIGN MINISTERS MEET WITH PRESIDENT

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington. — President Wilson met Baron De Cartier De Marchienne, the Belgian ambassador, at 11 a. m. today, and Dr. Jacobo Carela, the minister from Uruguay, at 11:15 a. m. It was announced at the White House.
These were the first appointments of the president with representatives of foreign nations for months.
Many ambassadors and ministers, in Washington for some time, have been unable to obtain an audience with Wilson because of his illness.
These two appointments today are expected to be forerunners to audiences with all the waiting diplomats, among whom is Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador.
The Belgian and Uruguayan delegates were invited to the White House first because they have been waiting longest for appointments.

DISCONTINUE EARLY SUNDAY MAIL TRAIN

Sunday mail service on Chicago & Northwestern train number 121 arriving here from the south at 2:55 o'clock in the morning, is to be discontinued starting this week. Part of the business mail from Chicago usually arrived on this train, but will now arrive at 8:40 o'clock in the morning. The reason for discontinuing the service is said to be the closing of the Chicago business houses at noon on Saturdays. The new arrangement has little effect in Appleton because this mail is not delivered until Monday, no matter what the time of arrival on Sunday.

CATHOLIC PARTY BLAMED FOR STAFF RESIGNATION

By United Press Leased Wire
Rome—Political observers here last night attributed the apparent downfall of the Nitti cabinet to the opposition of the Catholic party. The cabinet today was reported to have decided to resign after the chamber of deputies voted 192 to 112 against the government. The vote was on a measure concerning the posts and telegraphs.

WILSON TO URGE U. S. TAKE MANDATE

RECOMMENDATION IS EXPECTED TO BE SIGNAL FOR ANOTHER PARTISAN BATTLE

Washington—Republican senators on Tuesday predicted that President Wilson would shortly send the senate a message recommending acceptance of an Armenian mandate by the United States. Such a recommendation would be the signal for another partisan battle, they indicated.

Their belief that the president would urge that course was based partly upon a recent speech in congress by Premier Lloyd George, in which he said that the allies were ready to acquiesce in the condition laid down in the report of Maj. Gen. Harbord as prerequisites to an American mandate, including the possession of Constantinople by the mandatory power.

Favor Sending Warship
The probability of such a recommendation was discussed on Tuesday in connection with a favorable report by the foreign relations committee on a resolution requesting the president to send an American warship and marines to Batum to protect lives and property of Americans there and along the railroad to Baku against marauding Turks and Kurds, and congratulating the Armenians on attaining their independence at a nation. The resolution was unanimously supported.

The Harbord report was made after months of investigation by Maj. Gen. Harbord and a staff of experts, who visited Asia Minor. Gen. Harbord did not recommend either for or against a mandate, but set forth in detail the consideration which in his opinion favored a mandate by the United States and those which appeared to make it unwise.

The Lloyd George speech accepting the somewhat broad terms which

Gen. Harbord said must be made sure of before the United States could even consider acceptance of a mandate has strengthened the position of the president if he desires this country to become responsible for Armenia, republicans conceded. But they pointed to the cost of the undertaking, estimated by Gen. Harbord at 59,000 men and $85,000,000 the first year, as an insuperable obstacle.

A further proposal appropriating $50,000,000 from the treasury to be used by the president in extending help to the Armenian government, either through credits or supplies, was sidetracked by the senate subcommittee and probably will not be acted upon.

GERMANY WANTS TO TALK OVER TREATY WITH THE ALLIES

BERLIN FOREIGN MINISTER SAYS TREATY MUST BE BASED ON JUSTICE, TO WORK OUT

Dr. Carl D. Grosse, Berlin Foreign Minister, said today in an exclusive interview that Germany desires to lay all her cards openly on the table at the Spa conference May 25. Dr. Grosse said that the German government hopes to clear up the following points, Koester said:

1. Germany's exact economic position
2. Germany's financial situation and the food and raw materials problem.
3. The necessity for security and internal peace.

Koester expressed hope that Germany would be admitted to the conference with full powers to enter into load, raw materials and internal security," Koester said.

"As to the latter, I will be quite happy if the entente can show us a way whereby we can maintain order with only 20,000 men and no cannon. I hope the Spa meeting will result in a solution for fulfillment of the treaty. We do not expect to go to Belgium with any other idea.

"We do not mean Germany must not suffer in fulfillment of the treaty. We were beaten and we are willing to pay the price of defeat.

"But we do mean and hope the conviction has come to England and France that only on a basis of justice and common understanding can the treaty be worked out satisfactorily.

"We mean France must not expect Germany to pay all her taxes but agree to some basis for Germany to fulfill the obligations she is able to meet. For instance, we shall expect the entente to make terms under which it expects us to operate."

It would be absurd to think, Koester said, the entente expected Germany to effect any sort of economic rehabilitation without a merchant fleet. The coal fields of upper Silesia, should remain in German hands as they are essential to her economic life, he said.

to all discussions. If she is admitted only as a "listener," he said, then she must send delegates instructed accordingly for their sole duty will be to receive the accomplished decisions of the allied leaders. But, the foreign minister believed, the Spa conference will mean for the time direct verbal negotiations concerning fulfillment of the treaty of Versailles.

Koester hoped the Spa conference would not be "Verailles over again on a small scale."

"We expect to show the entente exactly what Germany's economic situation is, what her financial situation is and what she needs in the way of

POISONS HIS PARENTS TO MARRY HIS AUNT

By United Press Leased Wire
Salina, Kan.—A murder charge was expected to be placed today against Lee Bunch, 21, who confessed yesterday, authorities say, that he aided in the plot to poison his parents.

Miss Stella Hyman, an aunt of Bunch's, was said to have confessed she put fly poison in their food. Both said the alleged killing was caused by fear that the Bunches would not allow Miss Hyman and young Bunch to marry.

Miss Nancy Bunch, a sister of Lee Bunch, was also a victim of the plot but recovered.

Dandruff Soon Ruins The Hair

Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't. It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

WAR PUSHED U. S. INTO A LEADING TRADE POSITION

AMERICA PROGRESSED AS RAPIDLY IN 5 YEARS AS BRITAIN DID IN 100, SPEAKER SAYS.

By United Press Leased Wire
San Francisco, Cal.—It remained for the European war to bring the United States swiftly and almost unconsciously to the point of being really a foreign trading nation. James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, said today in the opening address of the national foreign trade convention here.

In a period of five years or less, the United States achieved an industrial and financial position such as Great Britain needed more than a hundred years of carefully fostered and wisely directed development to attain, he said.

Farrell predicted the United States will face "such an urgency for foreign trade as we have never before experienced."

"For either we shall find markets abroad for the surplus of our industrial productivity or we shall cease to produce it, which is quite unthinkable. That way lies stagnation, unemployment and business reverses. But the world offers vast opportunities for American enterprise. Needs that have been restricted by jealous and discordant political policies, material development that has been characterized by the insistence on narrow spheres of interest, will be governed in the future by a broader and freer conception of international co-operation that has never prevailed before."

There can be no question about the economic re-birth of the civilized world, Farrell continued.

"It is already in progress even in places where industrial distress seems most acute and social disorganization most profound."

THE BROTHERHOOD OF AMERICAN YEOMEN WILL GIVE A SOCIAL DANCE AND SUPPER THURSDAY EVENING AT SOUTH MASONIC HALL. ALL MEMBERS AND THEIR FRIENDS ARE REQUESTED TO ATTEND. SPECIAL MUSIC FOR THE OCCASION. MR. HATLEY, STATE MANAGER OF MILWAUKEE WILL SPEAK.

ABOUT TOWN

REMAINS HERE—A. W. Liese, station agent of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway company, who was offered his company's agency at Oshkosh, has decided to remain in Appleton, where he has been located for the last four or five years. The agent at Oshkosh has received a promotion.

The truck was damaged and a young man riding a bicycle narrowly escaped injury.

CITY LOOKS CLEANER AS CLEAN-UP PERIODS ENDS

The clean-up period designated by the city authorities expires next Saturday and it behooves every property owner to see that his premises are in a sanitary condition by that time. The dumps designated by the city have been used this year more freely than ever before and the practice of dumping tin cans and other rubbish on the streets on the outskirts of the city from automobiles at night has been practically discontinued. The appearance of back yards and property generally has been greatly improved during the two weeks' campaign and words of commendation are not confined to the city hall by any means.

"BOOZE RING" MEN RELEASED ON BAIL

William H. Finnegan and George Krause, two of the men implicated in the recent Appleton liquor robberies, were arraigned in court yesterday afternoon. Their cases were continued for ten days. Finnegan was required to furnish bail in the amount of $2,500 and Krause $1,500. Both complied and were given their freedom.

CANDY COMPANY HEADS CALLED PROFITEERS

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Warrants for the arrest of T. W. Bunte, millionaire head of Bunte Brothers Candy Company, and E. W. Boehm, secretary, were issued here today by U. S. Commissioner Lewis F. Mason charging violation of the Lever law.

The warrant charged the two with profiteering in sugar.

The government claimed it had evidence that the company purchased 1,296,150 pounds of sugar from the Colonial Sugar Company of New Orleans for 13.2 cents a pound and sold it for 29.4 cents.

The warrant charged that a profit of $204,143 was made on the deal.

MARSHALL FIELD FIGHTS FOR $50,000,000 ESTATE

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago.—Fifty million dollars was the stake which was fought for by Marshall Field, the third, in court here today.

Whether young Field is to receive this sum depends on interpretations of the will of Marshall Field, first.

When the grandfather of the present Marshall Field died, he left his estate to be divided one-fifth to a granddaughter and two-fifths to each of two grandsons. In case one of the grandsons died, the two-fifths was to revert to the other. Henry Field died and the light is on what the senior Field meant by the word "issue."

Peggy Marsh, English actress, by whom it is alleged Henry Field had a son, is laying claim to Henry Field's share.

The estate, originally estimated at $60,000,000, is now valued at more than $100,000,000.

Free Yourself From The Pangs of Rheumatism

The Right Treatment Will Break Your Shackles.
You who are afflicted with Rheumatism know from experience just how excruciating the pangs of the disease are. You know also, if you have had rheumatism for any length of time that there is no real relief to be expected from the use of liniments and lotions.
Rheumatism is a stubborn disease, and its pangs and pains cannot be wiped out as if by magic. A disease that is so full of torture and renders so many people absolutely helpless, is a deep-seated one; it is not on the surface, hence it cannot be reached by external surface remedies.
Lotions, liniments and ointments applied to the surface may in some cases deaden the pain for the time being, but until you attack the disease at its foundation, you are making no progress toward a cure. Many forms of Rheumatism are caused by millions of tiny germs that infest the blood, and until the blood is absolutely freed of these germs, there is no real relief in sight.
In fact the longer you delay treating the disease through the blood, the further you are getting from ridding yourself from the disease. And because so many people treat the pain, and not the disease itself, is one reason why Rheumatism increases in severity year by year.
The most satisfactory remedy for Rheumatism is S. S. S., because it is one of the most thorough blood purifiers known to medical science. This fine old remedy cleanses the blood of all impurities, and is a sure antidote to the germs of Rheumatism. Being purely vegetable, without a particle of mineral or chemical in its composition, it works by eliminating and forcing out of the blood all impurities, acting as a tonic to the entire system at the same time. It has been used for more than fifty years, and scores of sufferers from Rheumatism give it unstinted praise.
S. S. S. is sold by druggists everywhere, and any of them will tell you that it is a thoroughly honest and reliable old remedy. You are invited to write our medical department for full information and advice about the treatment of your own case, for which no charge is made. Address: Chief Medical Adviser 12 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

Washed by an Eden, they are gently dipped up and down through hot suds in the same ideal way women use to wash a bit of lace or silk. Falling through the bubbling hot water and soap countless times, they are perfectly cleansed without hard labor, without rubbing or wear and tear, and at surprisingly low cost.

SANDWICH BOARD BRANDS VIOLATOR

Madison, Wis.—The wearing of a sandwich board bearing a list of his sins against university student traditions was the novel punishment meted out last week by the student senate to Henry M. Anding, of Burlington, Ia., freshman in the University of Wisconsin. The court of his fellow-students found him guilty of not wearing a green cap, of smoking on the campus, of showing disrespect to upperclassmen, and of loitering about University hall, and decreed that he must attend two classes wearing a sandwich placard branding him as a violator of campus traditions.

SALOONISTS STOCK UP ON SUPPOSED BEER

Marquette.—Local saloon keepers are viewing large stocks of supposed two and three quarters beer which they put in recently rather dubiously. The product proves to be .2% beer with the decimal point before the figure two, making it less than one-half of one per cent and within the Volstead act. Local dealers all thought that the Milwaukee concern which manufactures it was supplying them with beer with a real kick in it. There is much chagrin among them over the reality that was put over on them.

NEW BADGER HIGHWAY MAP IS BEST PUBLISHED

(Special to Post-Crescent)
Madison, Wis.—What is said to be the most complete highway map for tourists ever published has just been issued by the Wisconsin Highway Commission. The new map shows the complete state trunk highway system, including the additions made in 1919, the other principal highways and much other information is now available. Former Wisconsin highway maps set a new standard, but it is believed that this new map is a marked improvement over previous issues. The state and adjoining territories in Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Minnesota is shown on eight separate map sections, making inspection easy under all conditions. One of the new features is the Distance Finding Table which shows at a glance the distances via the State Trunk Highway System between any two of 80 principal distribution centers. This is unique in highway maps and is of great practical value. These maps are on sale by the Superintendent of Public Property, Madison, Wisconsin, for twenty-five cents each, five for one dollar—greater quantities at still lower prices. Dealers in many places also handle them. Every automobile owner doing any long distance traveling in Wisconsin and environs will find this map to be invaluable. Larger scale mounted highway wall maps are also being prepared and will be on sale in a few weeks at two dollars each.

CAKE AND ICE CREAM ARE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE WEAPONS

STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN TO DEFEAT "PALE BREW" AND LIQUOR IN SEPTEMBER IS STARTED.

(Special to Post-Crescent.)
Madison, Wis.—The Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league has opened its fight on "beer and boozeholism," and meetings are being held in the school houses of Dane county this week to be followed by meetings in Grant county next week. Armed with "cake and an ice cream freezer," the officials of the league have announced that meetings will be held in 3,000 school houses in Wisconsin before the September primaries. At the fall election the people of the state will vote on the subject of 2.5 percent beer and this is a preliminary campaign.

The circular literature distributed at the meetings shows that coupled with the drive against 2.5 percent beer is a program against bolshevism. Following is a part of the announcement for the school house meetings in Dane county:

"You are invited to attend a community get-together at the town hall, ice cream and cake will be served at 8 o'clock. This is one of about 3,000 meetings planned for Wisconsin to be held before the primaries, September 6, and the election November 2, by the Citizens Council for Constitutional Order, the Good Citizenship department of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon League."

"You can't serve two masters in politics," says the literature distributed at the meetings. "One reason why some public officials are simply question marks is because socialist votes nominated them on the republican and democratic tickets at the primary election in September. So long as constitutional Americans neglect the primary the socialists, with no contest in their own party, will continue to nominate 2.5 percent 'pale brew' Americans, on the other tickets. That enables them to win in November whether they elect their own ticket or not. A real socialist on the socialist ticket is less dangerous than these near-beer socialists who get on to our tickets."

"To help Wisconsin solve this problem. The Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league has organized a Citizenship department for voters' education. They have planned 3,000 educational meetings. A luncheon is served free. American ideals are discussed. It is wonderful how coffee and sandwiches unlock the questions. Five hundred of such meetings have already been held. In many of them they refused at first to applaud the flag. In every one they were ready to applaud the flag at the close. Not only did they applaud the flag—they promised to stand by the constitution to the very end as well as bill of rights, pledged to as well as bill of rights, pledged to render a verdict in accordance with the evidence if called on a jury."

The literature declares that the present menace in this state is bolshevism. "Revolution is openly talked in shop, factory and mine. Red propagandists are everywhere."

On the literature which is distributed it is announced that the campaign is endorsed by the following: E. J. Lindsay, president, Lindsay Bros., Milwaukee; W. E. Weldon, president, Nunn, Bush & Weldon Shoe company, Milwaukee; John Geerlings, Federated Trades Council, Milwaukee; F. J. Vea, president Stoughton Wagon company; J. T. DOG DIES GAME: BURGLARS FLEE

(Special to Post-Crescent.)
Cincinnati—Kim, a fox terrier, owned by B. B. Quinlan, barked all night, despite Mrs. Quinlan's efforts to quiet him. Mr. Quinlan was in New York. Toward morning, the dog's yelping subsided and when the family arose, it was found that the animal was dead and that a cellar window and steel door had been pried open by the burglars who poisoned the dog, but were driven away before setting any loot.

RUTH GETS TWO HOMERS AND TRIPLE IN GAME

NEW YORK—Ruth's spectacular hitting featured New York's 6 to 5 victory over Chicago here on Tuesday. In four times up, Ruth hit two home runs, a triple and drew a base on balls. One of Ruth's home runs went into the right field bleachers, it being the second ball ever hit into this bleacher in the history of the present stand.

Ruth's batting accounted for five of New York's six runs. The other resulted from Peckinpaugh's home run. Fitchner, Mays was batted hard by Chicago, but his lead in the early innings saved him. The last four innings were played in a rain shower.

Uncle Sam Tractors

The Reason Why

The splendid popularity of Uncle Sam 20-30 farm tractors is directly traceable to the durability of the machine and its ability to stand up under all kinds of heavy duty and rough usage. Take the time to check up the following points of construction:

- 1st—The motor is constructed to work efficiently on kerosene. We test it on kerosene. It runs better on kerosene than it does on gas. Of course it is equipped with a kerosene carburetor — The Bonnett which we consider to be the best—but it is a kerosene motor, not just a gasoline motor with a kerosene attachment.
- 2nd—The transmission will outlast the tractor itself. We sent our general specifications to Nuttall—the oldest manufacturers of transmissions and told them to build us a transmission that would be more than ample for all conditions regardless of price. They did it.
- 3rd—Timken roller bearings are used wherever rollers are possible. You'll agree there's nothing better.
- 4th—The whole tractor—motor, transmission, clutch, in fact all vital parts are enclosed in one solid dust proof unit assuring long service and minimum wear from dust.
- 5th—The belt pulley is set conveniently on the side — operates on a separate clutch—is governed in speed by the best governor we can buy.
- 6th—The cooling system is as complete as you'll find on the highest priced passenger cars and so efficient that there's no bug-bear of overheating on the Uncle Sam.

Come and see us; there is nothing secret about the manufacture of Uncle Sam Tractors.

Hudson Fineness Equals Its Matchless Performance

Aside From the Supremacy of the Exclusive Super-Six Motor, Its Beauty Gives Distinction in Any Field of Fine Cars

Hudson has unremittingly kept the issue of performance to the fore. Not simply because its mastery is indisputable.

Rather because this question is vital above all. It must always be so. It must always be the measure of any car's title to worth.

Hence undue emphasis has never been placed on Hudson's four year's leadership in fine car sales. Largest sales are not infallibly proof of greatest merit. Hudson has no need to offer them as such.

Yet their importance cannot be overlooked. Here is the massed opinion of far the greatest number of owners of any fine car in the world. Some are driving the earliest Super-Sixes built—now more than four years old. Some acquired Hudsons but recently. But how unanimously they hold no car can rival it.

What 90,000 Owners Know First Hand

Those who have had their Hudsons longest are perhaps its most emphatic champions. They know it best. They have seen it pitted with triumph against every situation that can confront an automobile. Today their Super-

Sixes are giving service, such as is literally beyond the performance capacity of many new cars that cost more.

Certainly no fine car is so highly regarded by such a large following.

See What It Has Done

Were its position less deserved could Hudson hold the loyalty of all these? Were its supremacy less decisive, surely five years must have discovered the rightful successor.

But time only brings fresh evidence of Hudson leadership.

In speed—in power—in acceleration—in hill-climbing, have never been matched.

The most abusive tests to which a car was ever subjected have failed to find its endurance limit. Could other types adopt it, they might share Hudson's unmatched ability. But Hudson controls it. By right of invention Hudson alone can use it.

It will not be possible to supply all who want Hudson's. So even though you may not want your car for several months, now is not too early to place your order.

BASING DONS DENIM AND SHOVELS COAL DURING RAIL STRIKE

LOCAL FREIGHT AGENT FINDS WORK IS HARD ON HIS BACK BUT STICKS TO THE JOB

"The first three days I did switching and at the end of that time the firemen went out and then for the next twenty-nine days I did firing on locomotives," said W. P. Basing, local station agent of the Northwestern Railway company, who has just returned from Chicago, where he was called early in April on account of the strike.

"It was hard work at first and I was all in at night, but I soon got used to it," said Mr. Basing. In addition to shoveling coal his duty was to keep water in the boiler. At first the engineers kept very close watch of that part of my work, but I soon gained their confidence and they paid no further attention to the water gauge.

"Officials of even high rank responded to the call for help when the strike was declared and donning overalls went to work with a will, taking the place of strikers. Nearly six hundred men were called in from the company's main offices and from the various divisions. F. A. Pontious, supervisor of demurrage, was among the high officials that shovelled coal. Others included train masters, traveling agents and assistants to division superintendents.

"Three other station agents from this part of the state were called in, but one returned home as the work was too strenuous. We worked ten, twelve and sometimes fourteen and sixteen hours a day, but managed to stick to our posts. At one time I thought my back would give out, but the pain lasted only for a day or two."

Mr. Basing said that the company provided the best of meals which were served principally on dining cars which, in order to save time, were run out into the yards where the men were at work. Quite often they would also take their meals at terminal stations. Good lodging was also provided. It was the third strike in which Mr. Basing has rendered emergency service, the first was the freight handlers' strike eight years ago, and the other the shopmen's strike last summer.

"Conditions are not yet normal, but they are headed that way," said Mr. Basing. "Practically all of the men are being taken back, and quite a number from other roads are seeking employment."

A Nebraska inventor has invented a combination mangle and wringer, which, coupled with an electric washer, is said to reduce the wash-day drudgery to a minimum.

ADULTERATED CATTLE FOOD GETS IN STATE

(Special to Post-Crescent)

Madison, Wis.—Farmers should exercise special care in the purchase of oil meal or linseed meal at the present time, according to W. H. Strowd of the Wisconsin State Department of Agriculture, because an adulterated product branded as pure meal has been shipped into the state. This product contains a large percentage of pressed flax screenings and is, therefore, much less valuable than the pure oil meal. Until a short time ago this product was labeled to show its true quality, namely, oil meal and screenings oil feed (pressed screenings), but recently several shipments have come into the state which are not correctly labeled.

Evidence is being collected by the department and proceedings will be instituted against the manufacturer of this feed. The manufacturers have agreed to relabel all shipments which have been made into the state. If a farmer wishes to mix screenings with a high grade feed like oil meal, the State Department of Agriculture advises he will find it more economical to buy them separately rather than to buy such a mixture even if it can be obtained at a few dollars less per ton than the pure product.

TEAMSTERS' STRIKE IN EAST CLARE FAILS

East Clare, Wis.—The strike here of the city's teamsters apparently has failed, for the place of every strike has been filled by the city and affairs are moving along as usual.

The city teamsters some time ago submitted demands for an increase in pay and were informed that the council would take the matter under advisement for a week or so, which the teamsters agreed to. However, on Tuesday, when the council had decided that an increase was warranted and was about ready to make the announcement, the teamsters, without further conference or warning, quit work. Measures were at once taken by the council to fill their places, and with success.

The Stage

"The Gumps" founded on Sydney Smith's world famous cartoon which will be the attraction at Appleton Theatre on Thursday, May 13, is described as a radiant musical comedy with some of the warmest rays coming from Casper Nathan and Isham Jones' splendid lyrics and music.

The play written by Howard McKent Barnes is well planned and well acted, possessing plenty of popular appeal, abounding with timely and clever conceptions of wit and humor totally exempt from either the broad or the obvious, and for a farcical offering unusually strong in plot and dramatic construction.

An imposing array of comedians and comedienne present the play which is endorsed as an entertainment of singular merit in mounting and in novelties, framed in tuneful song and music, pageantry and dances, adorned with a display of pretty girls expensively costumed.

WANT TO PLACE FRESH AIR CHILDREN HERE

APPEAL TO APPLETON PEOPLE TO PROVIDE OUTING FOR PAIRL MILWAUKEE YOUNGSTERS

Two weeks in Appleton with plenty of fresh air, green grass, and three hearty meals a day for some of Milwaukee's 1200 under-nourished children is an appeal that is being made to local club women. Miss Irma Pynn of the Central Council of Social Agencies of Milwaukee spent Saturday in this city as representative of the Big Brothers and Sisters association which has the matter in charge.

Miss Pynn is the daughter of Mrs. A. Pynn, Morrison street. She entered her work with the Central Council of Social Agencies at Milwaukee just last fall, but has already made a remarkable success.

Last summer 300 of Milwaukee's unfortunate children were denied the summer outing because there was no one who had agreed to take them. To avoid a repetition of this unfortunate circumstance, a state-wide campaign is being conducted to place every one of the 1,200 children which the doctors in the mal-nutrition clinics have declared must have two weeks in the country or small towns in order to build up bodies strong enough to combat the diseases they are subjected to in the smoky, dirty factory districts where they live.

These children range from 6 to 14 years old and are largely of Italian and Polish parentage. Each child is given a thorough examination before it is sent into a family. No diseased children are permitted to go on the outings. People desiring to take children are given a preference as to age, sex, nationality and time when they can take them. An attendant brings the children, distributes them among the various families and at the end of the two weeks calls for them. All that is expected of the hostesses is to give the children three meals a day, a big yard to play in, and somewhere to sleep. The outing period is from July 1 to September 1.

Don't forget May 17—Lawrence College students will present their annual play at Lawrence Memorial Chapel. A farce comedy entitled the "Rivals." Adm. 75c.

Marquette.—The 5-year-old son of John Boyce of Mountain, Conoto county, was fatally poisoned by eating wild parsnips, and two other children had a narrow escape from the same fate. The Food Supply of the Future

AUTHORITIES agree that the food supply of the future depends upon the increased use of mechanical power on the farm. The tractor, motor truck, stationary gas engine, and the automobile, all dependent upon cheap, efficient motor fuel, have multiplied the efficiency of human labor, thereby increasing the acreage a man can handle.

In 1919 farmers owned 8,900,465 of the 7,528,664 automotive vehicles registered in the United States. These figures give a fair idea of the use being made of motor vehicles in producing and distributing food products.

There is no more prolific food producing area in the world than the territory served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

To serve the farmers of the Middle West is a major part of the Standard Oil Company's business. For that reason the dark, green tank wagon of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is recognized by the farmer as serving an indispensable need in promoting the increase of food products.

Thousands of these tank wagons travel continuously, on schedule, throughout the 11 states of the Middle West, served by this Company.

During the busy season, when the farmer needs power most, this Company delivers gasoline even to the tractors in the field. Rain or shine, these wagons are on duty to help make certain that the nation's food supply shall be planted, harvested, and delivered on time.

To enable the farmer of modest means to utilize automotive machinery in cultivating an increased acreage at a lower cost per acre, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) strives constantly to keep down the price of gasoline by increasingly efficient refining methods, and to expand and perfect its comprehensive system of distribution.
